

Our story

In 2005, our first child, Olivia was diagnosed with Celiac Disease (gluten intolerance) just before her first birthday.

For most of her first year, Olivia spent countless hours in doctors' offices as they tried to diagnose the cause of her constant stomach pain, digestive problems, slow weight gain, acid reflux, and multiple food allergies.

After determining that Celiac Disease was the cause, we changed over to a gluten-free diet. In just a couple of weeks, Olivia began to feel better and soon she started to gain weight and grow taller.

Since Olivia's diagnosis in 2005, her grandmother, sister and I (Olivia's mom) have all been diagnosed with Celiac Disease. Our entire family is gluten-free and we continue to transform - and perfect- gluten-free versions of our family's age-old recipes for delicious baked goods.

As we continue to watch Olivia grow, we are thankful not only for the gluten-free diet, but also for our diagnoses. Living gluten-free has improved our health and our quality of life. Our mission is that Olivia's Oven will help those living with Celiac Disease, other Auto-immune diseases and Autism, to enjoy their favorite foods and treats for each of life's daily celebrations.

May each of your days be happy, healthy and tastefully gluten-free!
